

The story of a greedy hamster

Once upon a time, a little, greedy hamster was in his cage minding his own business, until, he saw his favourite food! A hot dog! He couldn't resist, he just couldn't. So as any greedy hamster would do, he leaped out of his cage through the small hole and followed the scent.

When he reached the hot dog, he realised that it had a bowl over it to protect it and he saw a little hole that the smell went through. He thought for a couple of seconds before coming up with a plan. He thought that if he could get a long stick and put it through the hole, he might be able to lift up the bowl and get the hot dog.

So straight away he went and grabbed a stick he observed it carefully and stuck it into the hole. He tried to lift it but he was too weak. He then thought for a couple of seconds before bouncing up and down on the stick. He did this over, over and over again until he finally got the bowl half open. He had got it! Finally after about what seemed like days! He had the hotdog.... But then at that moment his owner came in and ate the hotdog in 1 gulp!

The End!!!
