

The Primary Ones loved 'Walking Through the Jungle!' so much that they decided to design their own front cover. We talked about a title having capital letters and how an illustration should be a clue to the story. We also wrote the author's name (and check out the illustrator's name...you might just know them!).